MERCER LAW REVIEW

“Georgia’s Oldest Law Review”

Mercer Law Review is published four times a year: Fall, Winter, Spring, and Summer. Since its inception in 1949, Mercer Law Review has served as an invaluable aid to practitioners as well as providing a great service to the academic community.

This year’s issues:

Volume 66, Number 1: ANNUAL SURVEY OF GEORGIA LAW—A review of recent decisions in major areas of Georgia Law. This Survey consists of articles on Administrative Law, Business Associations, Criminal Law, Evidence, Real Property, and Trial Practice and Procedure, as well as many other topics. This year’s Survey also includes a special dedication to Yonna Windham Shaw for her forty years of service to the Mercer Law Review.

Volume 66, Number 2: ARTICLES—This year’s publication explores a number of exciting topics. Two articles address the area of law and literature: One compares the seminal United States Supreme Court cases on confessions to how Fyodor Dostoevsky treats confessions in The Brothers Karamazov; a second looks at how the recently popular comic book series The Walking Dead can be used in the law school classroom. A third article examines the Supreme Court’s embrace of the “diversity rationale” and the role it plays for the principle of equal protection and a vision of pluralist democracy. A fourth article looks at the way market characteristics facilitate consumer exploitation, while a fifth article discusses strategies for teaching legal writing and research to a generation of law students who are accustomed to researching on the internet.

Volume 66, Number 3: LEAD ARTICLES—“The Scholarship and Teaching of Jack Sammons.” Jack Sammons has perhaps been the most prolific scholar in the history of the Walter F. George School of Law at Mercer University. His academic work spanned the fields of clinical education, legal discourse, ethics, professionalism, religion, philosophy, and rhetoric. His teaching in these fields has had an impact on three generations of students. Jack’s recent retirement has rend a hole in the very fabric of the Mercer Law faculty and the wider university community as a whole. These articles celebrate, honor, and explore the influence of Professor Sammons on students, scholars, and the legal community, and also expound on topics within Professor Sammons’ scholarship.

Volume 66, Number 4: ELEVENTH CIRCUIT SURVEY—A review of recent decisions in major areas of federal law in the Eleventh Circuit. The survey consists of articles on Antitrust, Bankruptcy, Constitutional Civil Rights, Criminal Practice and Procedure, Employment Discrimination, Environmental Law, Evidence, Federal Sentencing Guidelines, Federal Taxation, Health Care, Immigration, Intellectual Property, Labor and Employment, Securities, and Trial Practice and Procedure.

Cumulative Index—As a service to the Review’s readership, the Mercer Law Review published a cumulative index covering Volumes 1-56. The Index is divided into seven sections: an Author Index; an Index to the Annual Survey of Georgia Law; an Index to Former Fifth Circuit and Current Eleventh Circuit Law; a Table of Cases Noted; a Title Index to Leads and Articles Edition; a Title Index to Student Comments and Notes; and a Topical Index to Lead & Articles Editions, Special Contributions, and Student Articles.
